RESSMAKING.

OUT arrangements for this Autumn Season have been tandes with a view to meet the requirements of our lasty patrone, both in the finishing and panetual completion of their commands. Our staff is, as heretofore, a large and experienced one, and leaves us with no fear as to the execution of sill orders placed. The highest models to hand are, we are pleased to say, both graceful and practical, and in the copying of such our artists will be "at home." Indeed it has been observed in the "World of Fashion" that there is no reason why every lady should not be well dressed — meaning thereby that the Gowns be trathfully and beautifully bestowed in the past, and so thoroughly confirmed whilin the recent rounts of itentified in the city for light and confined the confirmed of feetiffich invite configuration, and we prevent that the substitute of the confirmed confirmed within the recent rounts of itentifies invite configuration, and we previously, and are substitutioning some specially-selected and entirely rounds in the past, and so the substitution, and we previously and are substitutioning some specially-selected and entirely from wool. The CREPTENE CLOTH is a new introduction, and we previously, and are substitution with past is specially prepared and spun from the finest wilk, giving an elasticity to the texture, and an assurance from creasing not altogether to be avoided in materials made entirely from wool. The Crepetines will be durable, and will wear clean, inasemuch as they do not hold the dust, while they retain their chai PINCK and BETZ, Limited, Agents, 6, O'Conne FARES.—Saloon, Single, £2.5s; ditto, Beturn. £3 15s; Foresbin, £1.5s. sach Syndicate Share will carry 200 shares in the Company.

This syndicate will be considered floated when 100 shares are This syndicate will be considered floated when 100 shares are applied for by the public.

This Syndicate is formed for the purpose of purchasing from the present owners and mining thereon for silver and lead two forty-acre blocks, situated in the parish of Catheart, county of Yancowinna, New South Wales. Upon these asims, as can be seen by the reports made by Mr. Z. Lane, manager of the North Broken Hill Silver-insting Company, and W. G. Ubonn, mining engineer, there is without doubt, a very rich silver-bearing vein, tilted of a permanent silver lode, which should on dopth being attained, also prove very payable to the shareholders.

Assay made by Everard Frowne, assayer to the Junction Mine showed the chloride bearing vein to carry silver as high as 1125oz. to the ton. Assays made by J. W. King showed as high as Assays made by Everard Browns, assayer to the Junction Aline showed the chloride bearing vein to carry silver as high as 1120-c. to the ton. Assays made by J. W. King showed as high as 4120-c. Better, to the ton.

From this vein severa tone can be bagged at once, and will be be to be be believed as to 1000-c. to the ton, so that shareholders many took for dividends almost at once.

There is on the property a very valuable cale spar lode, of which no mention has been made in either report. This spar is of value for flux, and a ready sale for it at the Broken Hill Propertary Silver-mining Company. This lode should pay for all the Labour employed on the property. Dr. version an essential account.

Mesers. Trübner and Co, have just brought out Professor Liversidge's book on "The Minerals of New South Wales." It is a handsomely got-up book of some 320 pages, and is replete with scientific information of the highest value. Its appearance at the present juncture is especially fortunate, for the jewel market is being fleeded with rubies and other precious stones from Australla, concerning which some little scepticism is felt.

INTERPRETATION CONTROL OF CONTROL

will commence to lecture in London next week. I do not think he is likely to schieve any great success in his self-appointed task of deihroning Shakerpeare.

Upwards of 9000 pictures have been sent in to the Royal Academy this year. Of these 3000 are landscapes, a class of paintings for which there is an increasing demand on the part of the public. As the hanging committee only consists of 11 members, it will have plenty of work to do to get through them all in time for the opening of the Academy. The Grosvenor Gallery, too, has received a great many more pictures than usual. Mr. Burne Jones, however, is not amongst the contributors to the Academy. It is understood that he is painting this year solely for the new gallery which is being set up in rivalry to the Grosvenor.

Mr. W. A. M'Arthur, M.P., intends to raise the Samoan question when the Colonial Estimates come

The Very Rev. Dr. Sheridan, who, after a period of the years' service in connection with the Roman Catholic Church in this colony, during the half of which he has cocupied the position of parish priest of N. Francis', Haymarket district, was yesterday afternous the recipient of an affectionate address and a rich giri the form of a gold chalice from the St. Francis', parishioners. The very rev. genuleman some months back resigned his position on accessin of these, his intention boung to make a journey to Europe for the benefit of his fulling health, and the presentation of yesterday was, we understand, arranged just before he left the district with which he had been so long associated. The results of the resing at Canterbury Park on Satarday brought about a slight alteration in the wagering on the principal events of the Sydney Turf Club's Birthday Meeting during the evening, when Lamond, who ran over his competitors in the Flying Handicap, received such support for the Royal Stakes that he soon became un equal favorities wife Gage d'Amour for that event; and Centaur, by his victory in the Autumn Handicap, was brought into the betting for the Birthday Cup, though he was not tacked to any extent. The latest quotations were as follows:—
Royal Stakes: 8 to I each v. Lamond and Gage d'Amour.

Boyl Stakes: 8 to I each v. Lamond and Gage d'Amour.

Stellend, Rossiville, and Raoul: 16 to I v. Agnes.

Birthday Cap: 8 to I v. Remus, 10 to I v. Vespasia, 12 to I v. Agnes.

SATURDAY, MAY 19.

Row.

The May meeting of the Canterbury Park Raos Club, on Saturday, was favoured with delightful weather, and, as was capsuled, the attendance was very large, and the sedding paddock was weil silled, while a numerous concourse assembled on the flat, though the St. Leger reserve was poorly patronised owing to the difficulty that exists between the progressors of the racecourse and the outside bookmakers, and which still remains unsettled. The new regulations issued by the management with the view of preventing betting except in the Leger enclosure, were put in force, and about half a dozen of the pescullers who attempted to break through the rules were removed from the ourse; but they were re-admitted on the understanding Lamond and Lady Marion, 6 to 1 v. Athlete, 7 to 1 v. Luly Level, 8 to 1 v. Rossivilla, 10 to 1 each v. Winnie and Euroclydon. Mitraillenee was the sunartest on her legs, and with Ledy Marion led along the far side of the course, attended by Mons, Victory, and Winnie, with Tempest last. They ran in something like the same order until after entering the straight, where the great weight told on Mirrailleuse, and, Lady Marion melting away. Lamond shot through his herees at the half-distance, and won a pretty race by half a length from Merigobah, who finished well, and beat Winnie by a head for second place. Mirrailleuse was a length away, fourth, and then succeeded Lady Marion. Lady Lovel. Tempest, and Athlete. Time, 1 minute 20 seconds.

Betting: 2 to 1 each v. Here's Luck and Southerly Stater, 6 to 1 v. Sloth, 8 to 1 v. Centaur, 10 to 1 v. any other.

Sloth got a triffe the best of a good start, but soon gave place to Allandale and Hore's Luck, who led past the stand, attended by Centaur, Sloth, Desmond, and Ronnie Doon. Here's Luck was then steadied, and Allandale and Sloth forced the running to the hill, where the chestmut retired, and Centaur, running up to Sloth, soon cut him down, and led into the straight by a length. Here's Luck came again at the distance, but Centaur held his own, and won eleverly by a length from Here's Luck, who beat Sloth by half a length for second homours, and after the placed three came Butterfly, Bonnie Doon, and Desmond, with Audacious last. Noting: 0 to 2 v. Colonvage, 3 to 1 v. Fringiss, 3 to 1 each v. Viper and Mariborough.

St. Omer was the first to come away from a good start, attended by Mitchell, who led past the stand, followed by Mariborough, 8t. Omer, and Viper. No change took piace until the hill was topped, when Viper appeared at the front, with Euroelydon and Gleuvale hard upon him. Viper looked like a winner at the distance, but swerved when called upon, and Gleuvale, getting in the last couple of strides, won a great race by a short head. Hotsglet was a good third, and after him came Fenelia, Euroelydon, and Fearer, with Mitchell last. Time, 1 minute 48 seconds.

BROKEN HILL BACES.
BROKEN HILL, SATURDAY.

The second day's resing of the B. H. J. C. was held to-day. An absence of exciting finishes was noticeable, but on the whole the day's racing was satisfactory. The following are the results:—
RAILWAY STARKS, 12 mile.—Yule, 1; Little Mick, 2; Troilus, 3. Time, 2 minutes 22) seconds.

HANDICAY STARKS, 13 mile.—Yule, 1; Little Mick, 2; Troilus, 3. Time, 6 minutes 55 seconds.

BROKEN HILL HANDICAY, 14 mile.—Froile, 1; Barone, 2; Kincship, 3. Betting: 6 to 4 on Froile, 4 to 1 Barone, 7 to 1 Richmond, 10 to 1 Vanity and Fawn. This was a splendid race, the field getting well away together, with the exception of Fawn, who was left at the post. Kingship took the lead past the stand, with Barone and Richmond lying back. The same order was kept until the turn near the mile post was reached, when Barone took up the running, with Froile coming through his field. Approaching the rise Froile challenged Barone, and after rucing into the straight together, beat him by two good lenetths, with Kingship third, Vanity fourth, and Kichmond about 20 lengths behind. Time, 2 minutes 40 seconds.

CANDELO COURSING CLUB.

CANDELO CANDELO. SATURDAY.

The Candelo Coursing Club held its opening meeting in compliment to Mr. R. L. Tooth, patron of the club, to-day; the weather was beautifully fine and warm. About 100 horsemen were on the field besides numerous buggies. The hares were numerous, and the dogs were in very good condition. The district bred dogs have improved vastly, and far more trouble is now takes with them in training than used to be the case here. Mr. W. F. Darragh, a local gentleman, filled the position of judge, as Mr. Walter Cooper, who has judged for the club for some years, was interested in some of the dogs running, and therefore could not undertake it. Mr. Darragh's judging its giving general satisfaction. Unfortunately Mr. Tooth was suddenly called away to Sydney and could not be present at this meeting, which was a great disappointment to the club. The following is the result of the running for the Pairs:

HUNTING.

The Horse and Jockey Hotel, Homebush, was the rendezeous for the members of the Sydney Hunt Club on Saturday, for a run with the hounds, and though there was not a very large muste of the red coats, the public were well represented. Prominent among those in the field were Messrs. F. Farnell, M.L.A., J. S. Brunton, E. Atkins, Itely, and Lamb, while the huntaman (T. Luckie) had charge of the hounds. A drag was laid by Mr. Martineer in the direction of Concord, through fairly timbered country, ending on Mr. Bray's property, near the Parramatta River, and the return drag was laid nearly in the same line. The hounds worked solendidly con-idering that the dry weather and the wind were against them. The only accident that occurred fell to the lot of O'Brien, the whip, who was thrown heavily, but an examination by Dr. M'Neil proved that no bones were broken, though he received a severe shaking, and a little rest will put him to rights in a short time. With the exception of O'Brien's mishap a most enjoyable afternoon was spent, and the metropolitan members got home in good time.

COLONIAL GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

English files to the 13th April were delivered to-day.

From the Australasian Insurance and Banking Record
we learn that the Australasian Fire and Marine Assurance business of 1887 shows generally slightly botter results than those shown for the two previous years. The premiums fell off, but lesses diminished by a far larger amount. The decrease of the premiums is largely Newcastie or Kiama.

Newcastie or Report of the premiums is largely amunut the decrease of the premiums is largely attributable to the reduction of the amounts held at risk; the eliminatory process, commenced in 1886, having benching the business of 33 companies) and continued.

Newcastie of the reduction of the amounts beld to risk; the eliminato the eliminatory process, commenced in 1886, having been continued. The total premium income of 1887 (which included the business of 33 companies) amounted to £1,421,017, against £1,435,527 by 28 companies in 1886, £1,719,863 in 1885, £1,830,847 in 1884, and in 1884, £1,308,384; and in 1883, £909.464. The ratios of losses to net premiums on fire business in the companies giving separate returns was 59.98 per cent; and in marine 61.79 per cent.—better results than for at least four preceding years. The fire loss ratio is just within the conventionally safe 60 per cent, and the marine loss ratio is unusually low—far lower in fact than obtains with the English marine offices—partly accounted for by the short terms of intercolonial capper risks, and by the comparative immunity from disaster enjoyed by the Anglo-Australian shipping trade last Elingamite (a.), for Melbourne: 2000 tone coal, 54 tone shale, 641 places timber, 874 casks cement, 116 places whath, 34 places stone, 15 cases confectionery, 20 packages goods, 17 cases empty betties, 16 doe, and a quantity of sundries.

Lew Ta-lex, the Chinese Minister in London, thinks it would have been better if Australia had tried to condition the Chinese Government, as in the case of the United States.

The Indian military authorities have reported that the Chinese makes supplied them from Larging the aggregate volume of business. As clerks are not a protected class, the general contention that protection that protection that protection ensures employment can hardly be held to mean that clerical employment is directly provided by it. If protection increased the number of manufactories and at the same time diminished the number of manufactories and at the same time diminished the number of importing houses, the gain to clerks in the One case might be balanced or overbalanced by the loss in the other. Protection could by the loss in the other. Protection could could be very least of the blowpipe, pronounced them to be worthless, as they fused with ease only increase the demand for clerks by entangles.

Oxford University has been won by the Australians, the scores being: Oxford University, two innings, 189; Australian Eleven, first innings, 208.

Mr. H. F. Cowax, the musical director for the Malbourne Centennial Exhibition, has left Naples for have that effect. The superglundance of manufactures for imports would necessarily have that effect. The superabundance of clerks or would-be clerks in Melbourne does not lay the strongest foundation for the assumption that protection, as a means of ensuring employment, is a failure. Nor. on the other hand, is it to be taken for granted that because only two accorded by the Turkish Government.

A consumact in Servia has been discovered. The men applied in the course of the week in arrest of the King was contemplated, along with many of his trusted adherents. A France syndicate is financing a Russian loan, provided for joiners in Melbourne. The demand for joiners depends upon the degree of activity in the building trades, and activity which is to be raised in the autumn.

The Government on Saturday forenoon accepted the lowest tenders submitted on Wednesday last for the manufacture of locomotives within the colony. The same the Atles Facinactive Company 25 time ago there was a remarkable activity in the building trades in and about Sydney; but it could not be traced to protection. While it lasted it doubtless protection. While it lasted it doubtless attracted joiners, amongst others, from the neighbouring colonies; and if these, like the Scotchmen who migrate into England for the benefit of that country, have not been over eager to go back, we may here see a partial explanation of the fact that joiners are not found too redundant in Melbourne now that there is a revival of building activity there.

But there is another way of looking at both cases. There would probably have been more answers to the advertisement for a joiner if more youths in Melbourne had been brought up to the joiners' trade, and probably there would have been fewer applications for the clerkships in that case. This brings us to the other aspect of the question. Whether protection in Victoria has or has not failed to reported that a test case will be brought in respect to her passengers, to determine whether she is entitled to land Chinese in proportion to her tonnage, on payment of the poll tax with respect to them. ensure employment there, it has apparently labour so sure a means of livelihood and so attractive as to destroy the widely prevalent preference for clerical employment. not follow from the great number of applicaplicants, or even a considerable proportion of them, were mechanics who had been seeking employment in their own trades in vain. It is fair to assume that for the junior clerkships many youths and applied-many who had only just left school, or never before left home, and had never been in employment. Some, perhaps, were simply seeking a little preliminary ence and training for the business of life. Of the applicants for the higher clerkships many, probably, were men who had no trade to work at, and were unprepared to earn a living except behind an office desk. Under protection as well as under free trade, in Victoria as in New South Wales, in the mother-country as in the colonies, men of this class abound-and superabound. The fact must be familiar to most of us. How is it to be explained?

decide to the control of the control

The general explanation is, that it is the result of the combined tendencies of the times. The extension of primary education; the diffusion of cheap literature; the closer intercourse of classes, which has not brought fusion as its result; the intense desire to "get on," if not by the acquisition of wealth, at least in the direction of social status; the attractions of a life physically less laborious, and freer from certain elements of inconve-nience and discomfort,—these are amongst the influences which impel so many to turn away from the trades, and to seek employment as clerks, or which lead parents to prefer such employment for their sons. From the pecuniary point of view the prospect is not inviting. This report from Melbourne is not the first, nor will it be the last, to show that the work of the mere clerk is often poorly paid, and the market generally overcro It may easily be seen that it is the workman, not the clerk, who dictates his own terms, makes the weight of his hand felt, in the every-day world is flattered and coarted and pandered to by adventurers in political life. It is as easily to be said, with one of our correspondents, that "there is nothing degrading in physical labour; it neither lowers a man's dignity nor his worth; it can only do so in the eyes of people whose opinions are not of much value." Experience goes far to show that these are not the dominant considerations in many cases. They may be recognised, but they are overrules. The question with many parents is, not whether a boy will lose in dignity or worth through being put to a trade, but whether the effect, amidst the actual conditions of life, The Premier of New Zealand protests against the New South Wales Government passing special legislation dealing with the Chinese before the proposed do not desire, to surround him with associations of life, tions from which they would rather he should, escape, to involve him in cir-A CHINESE Restriction Bill has passed the New Zes-land House of Representatives, a clause exampting Chinese who are British subjects from poll tax being which they would rather he should be which they would rather he should be free, to shut him out from opportu-nities to which they would like him to have access. These may seem poor motives. So of them may be the effect of holding false views of life. The time may come when, one of Auckland, the former was successful by six under the influence of more thorough education and truer views, and a reformation of manners where reform is needed, they will lose much of their power. But the facts before us are the results of induences that now prevail; and unless, or until, people are clerk, notwithstanding its disadvantages, on certain personal and social grounds preferable to that of a handicraftsman, the market for clerks will probably continue to be overdone.

It appears to be conclusively established, upon the testimony of experts, that the stones found in the M'Donnell Range, in Central the economic point of view, as having a bearing upon the controversy between free Australia, and supposed to be rubies of a high trade and protection. Others have considered quality of excellence, are merely garnets. The it from the social standpoint, as illustrating first discoverers of these stones were confident that they were genuine rubies; but experts baving submitted them to the usual tests, have discovered that as gems they are worth-The large number of applications for these less, and the latest authority upon the matter, Herr VAN SENDEN, has pronounced them, another proof of the fact, so repeatedly shown, that protection in Victoria does not ensure employment." To this it has been answered a ruby-field of great richness had hat about a month ago an advertisement for been opened that, according to a telegram joiner appeared in the Melbourne Argus tor published in our columns some time since, a week, but "there were only two appli- rush set in from Silverton to Central Au-

Everyone knows the ortions to which the gem industry vast proportions to which the gem industry ds, Brazil her diamonds and emeralds, Burmah, Ceylon, and India a profusion of precious stones, the collection of which forms staple industry for thousands, and the cutting and setting of which profitably employ the numerous lapidaries and jewellers of Europe. Persia has long been famed for the splendour and number of her turquoises, for the privilege of mining for which private individuals pay large sums into the final's treasury, one princely potentate considering the sum of £10,000 annually for the coastal seas of this continent are extremely wealthy in their harvest of pearls, and the pearl fisheries of Australia have grown to be as important as any in the world, many thousands of pounds being embarked annually in the trade with most successful returns. It must be remem-bered, too, that there has been no systematic attempt at the cultivation of the pearl oyster in these seas, as is the case in other fisheries. where various ingenious and effective devices recorted to in order to cause the pearl oyster to surrender its precious secretion. Up to this we have only been employed on the natural deposits, and the results have been so far successful as to encourage the belief that if a system of scientific cultivation of the pearl system were inaugurated, the result would be eminently satisfactory. As it is, our pearl fishenes are among the foremost in the world, sad afford employment every year to large feets of fishing vessels with their crews, white and coloured. The success of these faheries indicates the advantages derivable from the discovery and development of deposits of the more valuable gems. It seems strange that so far nothing approaching systematic search for precious stones bas een made on this continent. Any discoveries of precious stones here have been the result of pure accident, as was the case when the pros-peting party in the M'Donnell Range stembled across the deposit of supposed rubles. All the energy of prospectors and miners appears to be directed to the discovery and development of the precious metals gold and silver. This very probably arises from the fact that in searching for minerals the prospector is on sure ground, and travels on well-known lines. He knows he is searching for that which has existence in the colonies, and which experience tells him is found as a sure result of certain geological indications, the perception of which comes within the scope of his knowledge. With the search for gems it is different. Accident has not revealed their existence to a sufficiently large extent to make the operation mining for them particularly attractive and among our practical mining community there does not seem any portion of it capable of investigating the gem-bearing capacities atinent with a strict reference to the quelogical conditions under which precious stones are found. Probably if gems were once discovered to exist in payable quantities in Australia, a considerable influx of miners capable of practically opening up the industry would take place; but, as accident has not so far favoured the community as to permit of such discovery, it will be necessary, before anything important is done with regard to the gem deposits of the continent, to have a properly organised search consearch would not, however, be justifiable unless some previous indications of the gems in these colonies furnished. Without doubt, these cations have been plentifully displayed during recent years in many places through out Australia. Some handsome diamond have been procured in this colony alone, and titles of gem-sand containing sapphires sod forwarded from time to time to the Museum. The garnets discovered in Central Australia, although in themselves valueless, serve as indications that parts of Australia are of a gem-bearing nature, and may lead to the discovery of other and ore valuable stones. Those whose interest has been called forth by the find of alleged rubies in South Australia should by no means cision of the experts concerning them. It rdance with the hints furnished by geological science, some rich, or at any rate emunerative, discoveries would be made. channels, which are, perhaps, important enough to absorb all such mining energy as

Meanwhile, it is announced that the company of London speculators who were re-ported to have subscribed £200,000 for the work of developing the supposed ruby mines in the M.Donnell Range, have deterdoubtless turned aside from their riginal object by the discovery of the worthleaness of the reputed rubies, to undertake the work of exploring and examining Central Australia. Such a task would be fraught with a great deal of interest to the scientific world, and would, perhaps, lead to discoveries, if not in gems, in mineral deposits, whose value would well repay the enterprise of its The second the mineral capabilities are yet totally unknown. The opening up of new fields of industry in this country, by whomsoever understakes, cannot fail to be a matter of importance to Australia. It is perhaps a trifle hamiliating for us that such a task should be left to a company of enterprising London spectalers. It would be better in every way that all important schemes for the development of the natural resources of the country, that all important schemes for the development of the natural resources of the country isself. But if this cannot be the case, it is better that our natural deposits of wealth should be tapped by strangers than we are yet possessed of. When, however, the mining residuum in the colony becomes

Mr. SUTHERLAND is to be commended for the introduction of a new system in the loco motive branch of the Railway Department. From the Minute some extracts from which we published the other day it appears that his intention is to make collections of standard works on locomotive and mechanical practice in all its branches, to place these within the reach of the men employed in the Department, and to institute examinations which will serve as a test for fitness for promotion. By this means the men who acquire both theoretical and practical knowledge and readiness to act in emergencies will rise in the service, whilst those who fail in these respects will have to stand back and give way to them. The idea is an excellent one, and should tell upon the efficiency of the service if it be carried out fully and fairly. There is reason believe that the new system will not be instituted too soon. The inquiries that were made after the occurrence of the fatal accident at Peat's Ferry threw doubt upon the sufficiency of the methods adopted to test the qualifications of men who were entrusted with the responsible work of engine-driving. It appeared, for instance, that there was in some cases an undesirable lack of acquaintance with the that there was in some cases an undestrable lack of acquaintance with the working of the Westinghouse brake, and this indicated the absence of systematic and effective arrangement for the examination of engine-drivers. Some time has elapsed since this disclosure was made, but "it is never too late to mend," and though the reform may be tardy, it is welcome. It might be possible, in the absence of any thorough examination, for firemen to be appointed drivers in reward for an apparent practical efficiency, gained by observation in the course of their actual work. This sort of experience is not to be undervalued, but it is not sonuch. be undervalued; but it is not enough. It should be accompanied, if possible, by theoretical knowledge and a general familiarity with all questions relating to the construction and management of steam-engines. What Mr. Sutherland asks for is, that a man should be able to show that he would know how to act in the case of a break-down. In such a case, it will be said by most people, presence of mind is the first by most people, presence of mind is the first sometimes thought to depend upon or to be identical with a full knowledge of what is best to be done under the circumstances. It is the man who does not know what to do in time of danger who is likely to become flurried and helpless. But the best guarantee (apart from questions of constitution or temperament) for quick perception of the needful thing is to be found in a combination of theoretical knowledge with practice, and not in either be able to show that he would know how to act in the case of a breakknowledge with practice, and not in either separated from the other. It may be worth while to notice that it is propos grants for libraries at Eveleigh, at Goulburn, and at Bathurst. Why is not Newcastle

A correspondent complained, the other day, of the offensive practice of scrawling with chalk or what not upon the walls of public and private buildings. His righteous indignation has strong claims upon public sym-pathy. It is to be admitted that there are scrawlers and scrawlers. Some of these may be mimated by a zeal that is well-meaning, though it is offensive because it is untempere by discretion or by a sensitive regard for public or private rights. We may think kindly of the motives of the enthusiasts who scribble "Hell" or "Eternity" on surfaces that do not belong to them, and which they have no right to deface; but the intention not give sanction to the deed. Possibly it has never occurred to them that they might themselves resent un-authorised alphabetical applications of whiting or red lead to the blank space at the back of their coats by youths inflamed by a desire to make the world familiar with the elements of literature. There is another class of scribblers who, perhaps, should excite compassion even in the minds of the public whose sense of propriety they vex. The lunatics of a night who abandon themselves to explosives and wall-chalking at the turn of the New Year are offenders, but offenders not beyond the range of pity, for are they not doomed, on returning to their right mind, to be confronted by the evidence of their folly for many a day? But there are others, again, whose performances are not merely senseless, but obscene. There are some things Why should men, and youths, and boys acquire the habit of interlarding their is more than probable that if a properly conversation, in private and in public places, equipped expedition undertook to look for with offensive, disgusting, and in the connection often utterly meaningless words? There may be explanations. But what can be the motive or intention of those who go about scrawling foul language and passing or Whatever the effect may be upon the sensibilities of others who follow, it is unseen by themselves. How this practice can bring with it any sense of pleasure, or satisfact or relief, it is difficult to conceive. Probably it is not worth the trouble to inquire. question of greater practical in is whether the practice could checked. There is not, perhaps, much room for sanguine expectations. It is not likely that these things are done when a policeman is looking on. But there would be some degree of gratification if it were known that this matter received the special and serious attention of the police, and that the plain-clothes men of the force kept a keen and systematic watch for offenders.

THE MATCH WITH OXFORD UNI-VERSITY.

ANOTHER ONE INNING'S VICTORY FOR AUSTRALIA.

> [BY CABLE.] (PROM OUR CORNESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MAY 18.
The match between the Australian Eleven and the Oxford University, which was postponed on Thursday on account of the rain, was commenced to-day on the Christ Church College cricket ground, at Oxford.

The Oxford eleven were the first to go to the wickets, and were dismissed for a total of 102, of which Rashleigh contributed 48. The bowling of the Australians was decidedly good, Ferris securing six wickets at a cost of only 46 runs, while Turner's record was four wickets for 47 runs.

The Australians then went to the wickets. and at the close of the day's play had topped their opponents' score with 160 runs for six wickets. Macdonnell played a useful innings of 88, and was not out when the stumps were drawn.

The match between the Australian Eleven and the Oxford University was concluded to-day. The Australians resumed batting, and completed their innings for a total of 208.

M'Donnell increased his score to 104.

Oxford went in for their second innings, and owing to the destructive nature of the bowling they were all disposed of for 87.

The Australians thus won the match in one innings, with 19 runs to spare.

In the second innings of Oxford Turner took three wickets for 24, Ferris three for 36, and

The local land board terminated a two days' sittings bere to-day. They dealt with the following cases:—Benjamin Clements, as administrator of the will of the late John Clements, as piled for a conditional purchase of 104 acres, parish of Bigga, under the 42nd section of the Act. The board disallowed the application, as the applicant is not a holder of prior conditional purchases of the series. James Horner's conditional purchase applications were disallowed. Bight conditional purchase applications were confirmed, having an aggregate area of 1730 acres. Three conditional leases were subject to the saine action, upon which the annual rent was fixed at 4d, per acre respectively. Seventeen recently-made applications for conditional purchase leases were investigated, and survey was directed of an area of 3170 acres to satisfy cach. Two cases, referred to the board by the Minister for Lands, under the provisions of the 20th section, were gone into. A favourable recommendation was made as to the disposal of each. Four applications to purchase small areas at Trunkey, in virtue of improvements, were investigated, and two were recommended for refusal. The remainder, each for one roud, were sent on approval at £6 a-plece.
